THE CHURCHES OF THE MIDDLE AGES.

(By HENRY BOWMAN and JOSEPH S. CROWTHER, Architects, Manchester.

To be completed in Twenty Parts, each containing six plates imperial folio, issued at intervals of two months. Price per part to subscribers—proofs, large paper, 10*s.* 6*d.*; tinted, small paper, 5*s.* plain, 7*s.* 6*d.* Parts I. to IX. are now published, and contain Illustrations of Everby Church, Lincolnshire; Temple Balsall Chapel, Warwickshire; Heckington Church, Lincolnshire; Grey Church, Norfolk; and Threekingham Church, Lincolnshire.

"Every one a magnificent specimen of a flowing middle-pointed church. It is most perfectly conceived and delineated; one can follow the most recondite beauties of the construction, mouldings, and details in these plates, almost as well as in the original structure. Such a monograph as this will be of incalculable value to the architects of our Colonies or the United States, who have no means of access to ancient churches. The plates are so done with remarkable skill and fidelity. Of Heckington we can only say that the perspective view from the south-east presents a very vision of beauty; we can hardly conceive anything more perfect. We heartily recommend this series to all who are able to patronize it."—Ecclesiologist, Oct. 1848.
